Islamic Finance The New Normal

RAM's latest publication on Islamic Finance incorporates both TECHNICAL and ISSUE-DRIVEN write-ups, focusing on the critical aspects of economic development, legal, regulatory and Shari'ah issues - both domestic and global markets.

Comprising 10 chapters, the publication outlines technical discussions with leadership thoughts on the historical context of Islamic banking and finance, capital markets, takaful, waqf, Islamic microfinance as well as future directions in Islamic Finance; cutting across several economies including China and the Sub-Saharan countries. Coverage also includes subjects of topical interest such as fintech, green growth and human capital development.

This publication is intended to meet the needs of a multitude of readers. Undergraduate students preparing for exams will find summaries of theory and models in key areas, researchers interested in analysis of a topic or issue, as well as industry stakeholders seeking to understand new dynamics and cutting edge topics in global industry developments.
